

Examples of Philanthropic Objectives

An objective to help overcome Homelessness and Housing Affordability, our committee would like to see those who are struggling to be in a position to make that a thing of the past and this can be realised by pecuniary measures as well as integration into general society. An allocation of funds is part of what the less fortunate sector of society needs, but just as important is a comfortable integration into general society and this could entail job opportunities, visits, helping families with school and sporting materials/equipment.

To protect our future's environment and to encourage the use of our resources in a way that doesn't compromise the needs of our future generations.

As a committee we hope to see a change in the connection between those with mental health issues and support within the community. We want to spread awareness and change the way we see people and their different health aspects.

By narrowing our focus specifically on Inclusive, Sustainable Economy & Jobs, we want to impact and assist not-for-profit organisations in fulfilling their purposes. Through the grants, our YiP committee aims to achieve more equity, especially for those with disadvantaged backgrounds.

We joined YiP because we wanted to personally help instigate positive changes and make tangible differences in society. This opportunity will assist in deepening our understanding of philanthropy, by constructing more direct connections with these not-for-profit organisations. We hope to build upon our leadership and cooperation skills as well as create meaningful change to the lives of others, whilst also having fun. Our objective is to decrease the amount of unsustainable power sources and replace them with more sustainable sources such as solar and wind and to clean our suburb of littering.

Our committee would like to make an impact on those who are experiencing disadvantage. By also creating greater awareness to let others know about the impact we could make.

We hope to fund programs that create environments where all members feel belonged and safe. We are trying to ensure there is involvement and recreational opportunities for everyone from different cultural backgrounds.

We want to strengthen social cohesion in marginalised communities to enhance the mental health and wellbeing of broader community. We want everyone in the community to have a base support network that promotes positive relationship building, skill development and mutual acceptance. In doing so, we not only improve our own sense of community but also grow our knowledge of issues within the community.

We wanted to join the Youth in Philanthropy as we are keen to learn about our Impact Area of Inclusive, Sustainable Economy & Jobs in both our community as well as broader Melbourne, as we want to create opportunities for marginalised groups. By doing this we hope to inspire our fellow peers to participate in future philanthropic ventures.

Our committee wishes to engage more school-aged students in the conversation about our environment and climate change so that we can make a lasting impact so the future looks better than how we are currently living.

Our primary objective is to create change with regard to societal perceptions around people with mental health issues. We want to support not-for-profit organisations which aid those who cannot aid themselves or are not able to receive government support, specifically adolescents and those in marginalised communities.

It is our aim to support individuals in our community who are disadvantaged so they can obtain employment and get to a state where they can support themselves. We will strive to achieve this goal using various methods fundraising, community awareness programs and supporting organisations that make a difference.

The committee's Philanthropic Objective is to provide those in disadvantaged and marginalised communities with equality of opportunity, whilst minimising discrimination. Through supporting initiatives within the Impact Area of Healthy & Climate Resilient Communities.

To promote wellbeing and resilience in young people (12-25) and subsequently prevent the onset of mental health issues.

Our aim is to support current and future communities (especially those from diverse backgrounds), to feel secure, and to provide opportunities for a prosperous and happy life.

By choosing Inclusive, Sustainable Economy & Jobs, we aim to help the current and future generations receive the education and opportunities they require to better our world.

To enable people to be able to lead and determine their own lives through the learning of skills and development of confidence and belonging through education.

To raise awareness and support young people, particularly those of a low socio-economic background, who are at risk of or are experiencing homelessness.
